

Exclusion Policy

The Parachute Club is committed to dealing with negative behaviour wherever possible. Disrupting or challenging behaviour will be dealt with promptly between staff, children and parents.

When further action is necessary, including reviewing a child's place at the club, staff will firstly explain to the children involved why their behaviour is unacceptable the consequence of further incidents, children will be encouraged to discuss their actions. A repeated warning will be discussed with the parents and staff. If all actions taken fail, the child may be temporarily suspended.

After immediate suspension has taken place, the manager will arrange a meeting with the club and parents to discuss the incident and decide a possible return to the club.

Where a child is excluded as a last resort, when all other actions have failed, management and staff must discuss with parents promptly.
